Dear friends,

We hope you and your family are well and that you've had a great start to the New Year. We "hit the ground running" with ministry and school related activities including Michelle coaching girls basketball, Chris swimming for his high school team and Rein, David and Jacob playing basketball for their school teams. Lydia is doing well at NC State both in the class room and in the pool. Its hard to believe that she is close to being a Junior in college and that Rein is graduating high school in just a few months. We praise God for His grace and wisdom being upon our kids as they mature and develop in their callings in life. Truly, they are "...His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand that we (they) should walk in them." Ephesians 2:10

Our ministry work at Georgia Tech is going well. We are back in the weekly routine of doing truth booth outreaches, one to one meetings with student leaders, evangelistic meetings with non-believers, student led small groups and our Thursday evening PLUG student gathering. We are regularly meeting new students including some believers who are beginning to participate in our student ministry group activities. Helping students "see" the value of getting "plugged in" to a Christ-centered, missional community of believers is vital to their spiritual and mental health, leadership development and equipping for their callings in life and service.

Methods May Change but the Message Stays the Same!

At our PLUG gathering this week, I shared on the topic of "Creativity" as it relates to campus outreach. The thesis of my talk was that the problem of man's sin ("heart sickness" - see Luke 5:31-32) hasn't changed nor has "the cure" - the Cross of Christ. However, the way we deliver the Gospel to students must be flexible and led by the Holy Spirit's guidance. As Paul the Apostle learned and wrote we must "...become all things to all men, that I might by all means save some." 1 Cor. 9:22b So, may the Lord give us power and wisdom in our witnessing to those in need of Christ's forgiveness and transforming grace and love!

We greatly appreciate your partnership with us through prayer and financial support. Working together, the Lord is using us to impact today's university students...tomorrow's leaders! May the blessing of the Lord be upon you during this Winter season. Please contact us if we can be of service.

Your campus missionaries,
Bart Jones & family

Page 2 contains our 2014 Financial Support Statement. We are trusting God and will be working toward financial increase during the current season of our lives. The needs have grown over the last seven years and thus its time for a "Kingdom Raise." THANKS so much for your faithful and generous support. To God be the glory for great things He has done and will do!
